

Your spare change can make a real difference

By signing up to workplace giving for Redkite, your spare change can go a long way. Find out below how your regular donations can impact the lives of children and young people with cancer and their families:

$5

a month

Keep families connected

Can pay for phone calls so that a child in hospital can talk to family at home.

$10

a month

Help get a child to hospital

Can help get a child to hospital for cancer treatment by paying for petrol. Parents often need to stop work to be at their child's bedside.

$10

a month over a year

Ease stress and pain during treatment

Can pay for a Redkite Music Therapy session to assist during a child or young person's cancer treatment.

$25

a month

Keep food on the table

Can help pay for food when a parent stops work to care for their child. Everyday costs often increase when families travel and live between hospital and home.

$50

a month

Education support

Can pay for tutoring to help a child catch up on school missed during treatment.

$80

a month

Emotional support

Can help provide cancer specific information, support and professional counselling to children and young people with cancer and their family on the phone and via email.

$210

a month over a year

Support from hospital to home

Is enough for Redkite to support a family with a range of essential services for a year.
